My breeder has many years of experience with pets from managing a chain of pet stores to a family history of breeding quality kittens. Here at Suchi we have endeavored to produce kittens from the best award winning bloodlines. We think personality/temprement, looks and health are all important.
We ensure all the kittens are thoroughly vet checked, have met their developmental goals including being at the correct weight/size and completely healthy before they leave us to go to their new homes!

At Suchi we aim to stay a small and customer orientated boutique cattery. We offer ongoing advice and a range of ongoing services available exclusively to the owners of a Suchi Burmese. Being small means that we can dedicate more time to our kittens, therefore producing friendly, healthy kittens and also reducing the risk of disease that is impossible to prevent in large catteries.

All our kittens are raised indoors and are part of our family. They get lots of attention and love and are guaranteed to be very affectionate.

I am currently located on the North Shore of Sydney, Australia.
